CASE STUDY

Ministry Of Lands Were in search of a vendor who could solve their document management problem and implement a workflow solution in all key department as well as automate the Titling process (Printing Of tittle deed) data capture and partial digitization was also to be done as part of the project scope. Ministry of Lands floated a public tender which was highly contested including international vendors participation and after thorough evaluation Coseke emerged on top and was awarded the contract

Coseke bided successfully for the, supply of the system. To begin with, the major task was to collect data and business processes from all the key departments as well as the titling center so as to map out the work flows.

This took a period of up to one month, which also included the mapping out of the business processes. . On completion Coseke is to install a DMS & workflow system. As an on-going project, Coseke will fully automate the proceedings and manual processes of the Ministry Of Lands hence increase the efficiency of Ministry in serving the Kenyan citizens through a transparent process..
